From the famous play by the same name by CLYDE FITCH. GLADYS HANSON AND GEORGE SOULE SPENCER

"The Climber" is a photoplay for the masses because it preaches a powerful sermon. It unfolds the striving of a good wife and mother for the goal of happiness in a tainted world of sham, deceit, hypocrisy, and evil. It is a satire on high society and frenzied finance and abounds in stirring climaxes and tense situations.

CHARLES G. SHANK SHOT TO DEATH

County Man Accidentally Killed by Discharge of Charles Stover's Gun Near John Cole's in Buchanan Valley this Afternoon.

Charles G. Shank, of near Guernsey, was accidentally shot by Charles Stover, of Bendersville, about noon to-day at the home of John Cole, in Buchanan Valley, and died about an hour later before the doctor could reach him.

Mr. Shank, who resides on the old Barr farm a short distance east of Guernsey, had gone to John Cole's in the Buchanan Valley, yesterday, where he hunted for deer this morning with Stover and a number of other men.

As they were about to start on a drive this afternoon, the gun of Charles Stover was accidentally discharged and the lead entered the body of Shank near the thigh.

Doctor Hildebrand, of Biglerville, was sent for immediately but before he could arrive on the scene of the accident the victim was dead. It was not explained how the accident occurred but no blame is attached to Stover, who is an eighteen year old son of John Stover, of Bendersville.

Shank's body is being brought to his home this afternoon. He was less than forty years old and leaves his wife and six children.

ASK $42,500 FOR THE BATTLEFIELD

Congress will appropriate that Amount to Take Care of the Usual Expenditures. Money for Carlisle.

Among the appropriations asked at the opening of Congress on Monday was the sum of $42,500 for the Gettysburg National Park Commission. This is approximately the same amount as has been set aside in preceding years.

It is expected to cover all the ordinary expenses usually incurred in the care and maintenance of the battlefield. Out of this sum are paid the salaries, the laborers' pay, the repairs, whatever new material is needed, and all the numerous items of expense that go to make up the total.

The appropriation will, without doubt, go through with the rest of the bills of like nature and the Commission will have the customary funds with which to do its work. There are no extraordinary expenditures anticipated at this time and it is believed that the sum of $42,500 will meet all the demands.

Among the other appropriations recommended in the bills presented at the opening session is one asking $152,000 for the Carlisle post office.

EDWIN T. BENTZ

Former York County Recorder Found Dead on Road.

Edwin T. Bentz, a former recorder of deeds of York county, was found dead on the road 200 yards from his farm in North Codorus township, Monday evening at 5 o'clock, having been stricken by apoplexy while on the way home from the farm of his son-in-law, Charles C. Harrold, where he with other members of the family, had spent the day threshing. He was 59 years and 10 days old.

The former recorder was found by his son, Peter Bentz, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. C. F. Bentz, who were passing along the road on the way to their homes. Mr. Bentz had been apparently in good health and spent the day helping with the threshing. He left about 4:30 p. m. His body was found at the side of the roadway, at the top of the hill, and was removed immediately to his late home. Dr. O. A. Delle, of York New Salem, who was summoned, pronounced death due to apoplexy. There will be no inquest.

MAMMOTH ENGINE IS BROUGHT HERE

Largest of its Type in Use. Local People View it with Greatest Interest during Brief Stay.

The Western Maryland's monster new engine arrived in Gettysburg this afternoon, coming here on the second day of its testing trip. On Monday it was taken over the Main Line from Hagerstown to Baltimore. To-day it was brought here from Port Covington.

The Warnock Mallet is the largest freight engine of its kind in existence and one of a series recently constructed at Lima, O., for the Western Maryland Railway Co.

The Mallet engine is an enormous one and is able to pull 200 loads from Cumberland to Hagerstown, and between 55 and 60 loads from Hagerstown to Highfield.

The engine was designed by Superintendent of Motive Power H. R. Warnock, and is considered one of the finest pieces of mechanism ever constructed, and the results which it is expected to produce are being watched by railroad men and mechanics over the entire country.

The Mallet left Hagerstown Monday morning about 11 o'clock and had attached a caboose for the officials who made the trip. It was in charge of Road Foreman of Engines J. F. Chisholm, Engineer C. E. Poper and Conductor M. L. Donovan.

The party accompanying the engine made numerous measurements all along the way, seeing at the switches what clearance would be required, and making other tests to govern the use of the engine. Whether or not it will be much used to handle the heavy coal trains through Gettysburg was not stated. It excited a great deal of interest during its short stay here.

MODERN TRACTOR INTERESTS MANY

Demonstration on Farm in Eastern End of the County Draws Many Farmers. Much Used in Western States.

Farmers on the eastern border of the county are greatly interested in a new baby tractor engine that is being used for plowing on the farm of C. E. Moul, near Abbottstown. A demonstration was given in the presence of about fifty farmers and others interested in the latest improved farming methods several days ago.

Attached to the engine are three plows with a capacity for throwing a fourteen inch furrow, and plowing from six to eight acres in one day. The field in which the plowing was done has about twenty acres and it required just about twelve minutes to cover its entire length, about one-fourth mile. The entire outfit can be operated by one man with ease, and do the work that would require about four men and twice as many horses. The tractor is rated as an eight horse power with a sixteen horse power belt.

In addition to being used for plowing it can be attached to machinery for discing, harrowing, and general harvesting. It can be used for all the work that a stationary engine does on the farm. And another advantage with the engine is the fact that whenever the farmer has no use for it he can place it in the dry, with no need required to keep it, even throughout the entire winter.

The field in which the demonstration was made has just the proper grade to try the apparatus out thoroughly, and on the most difficult places it behaved satisfactorily and responded to the operator with the utmost precision. While these machines are used very extensively throughout the West, Mr. Moul is the first farmer in this section of the state to own one and put it to use.

SIX SHARE IN TIMES MONEY

Bendersville Gets First Prize; Straban Township Second. Last Two Prizes are Divided. Close Race.

Results of The Times subscription plan for the schools fully met the prediction published from time to time in this paper. Both the third and fourth prizes will be divided. The schools of Misses Alma Henry and Beulah Wentz are tied for fourth place while the third prize is shared by the schools of Harper Wentz and Miss Eliza Thomas.

In either of these cases one extra subscriber would have entitled the school securing it to the total amount of the prize money instead of just half. The whole plan was so different from the usual newspaper contest that the schools did not seem to realize the opportunity it afforded. There were no extra votes and bonuses to confuse the workers, no tricks or schemes to contend with and no favorites being helped by the paper. It was a clean cut proposition for the schools with some energy to earn money for their own benefit.

So far as our knowledge goes it was the first time a proposition of the kind was ever presented by any newspaper. The Times received much commendation for its liberality and was glad to have been the means of helping some schools to a long cherished ambition.

While no school sent in a great number of names, the aggregate was large. There was little difference between even the first prize winner and some of those who failed to secure any of the extra money. Some of the best work was done in the last few days. The teachers all retained their commissions when they remitted for the subscriptions and the checks for the prizes were mailed to the fortunate ones to-day, so everyone is happy, at least everyone who worked.

Immediately after the poultry show opened this morning, the judges began their work, and soon found that they had before them a very difficult task, due to the large number of entries and the fine quality of birds exhibited in a number of the classes. U. S. WON'T GIVE RECALL FACTS

Flatly Declines to Assign Reasons For Ousting Attaches.

THEY MUST GET OUT

If Germany Refuses to Ask Safe Conduct for Boy-Ed and von Papen They Will Have to Go Without.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The United States will decline to give Germany any information as to its reasons for asking for the withdrawal of Captain Boy-Ed and Captain von Papen, and that should Germany decline to ask for safe conduct for the attaches of the German embassy the men will be forced to leave the country without them.

This was officially announced at the state department and followed a communication presented by Ambassador Bernstorff asking for the reasons for the request for the withdrawal of the two men and an inquiry on the same subject from the Berlin foreign office transmitted by Ambassador Gerard.

At the same time that the ambassador presented his communication he stated that he would, under no consideration, ask the United States to get safe conduct for the attaches. The German government was represented as considering it incumbent upon the United States to return the attaches in safety to German territory and bring their successors here.

Officials of the state department refused to express their views for publication, but it is known they are of the opinion that should Germany decline to ask for safe conduct for the attaches, the men may have to leave the country without them. It was pointed out that the men could with safety proceed to Mexico. To attempt to reach Germany without safe conduct would, however, be an extremely hazardous undertaking. The department does not consider itself bound to get their successors here.

The embassy was represented as considering that it and the attaches stand before the bar of public opinion. In such circumstances the understanding is that the embassy will deny that the attaches have in any way been connected with anything under attack other than the Archibald incident and the testimony in the federal court in New York.

All this action is considered by officials of the state department to be contrary to precedents of diplomatic procedure. While conferences upon the subject are in progress, the two attaches, Captain Boy-Ed and Captain von Papen, will remain within the United States. They were both in Washington and they have conferred with Count von Bernstorff several times. Under all diplomatic usage it is only necessary for the United States to indicate to Germany that the attaches are persona non grata, and it is not necessary to give a reason for asking their withdrawal. The German ambassador's action came as a distinct surprise to officials.

Count von Bernstorff also made emphatic denial of reports that Germany or German official agents had been concerned in recent attempts to set up a counter revolution in Mexico.

HINDENBURG SEES NO PEACE

Says War Must Continue Until England, Serbia and Italy are Punished.

London, Dec. 7.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, in an interview obtained by Dr. Paul Goldman, expressed the view that the foes of Germany do not desire peace at the present time, says a Berlin despatch transmitted to Reuters' correspondent at Amsterdam.

"They are not yet sufficiently battered," the field marshal is quoted as saying. "We must continue, therefore, to press them, since they will not admit of our successes."

He considers the German tactical situation excellent, the interviewer reports.

"Particularly in the east," said the field marshal, "the German army has reached the most favorable strategic line conceivable."

The officer believed the Russian reserves, which now have been called, can only complete the existing Cadres, or basic organization, and not create new armies. He added that it would fill him with "special joy" if the war does not end until the three main culprits—England, Serbia and Italy are punished as they deserve.

Russia to Call Youths of 19

London, Dec. 7.—Nineteen-year-old youths, constituting the class of 1917, will be called to the colors in Russia early next year, according to Petrograd despatches. Presumably they are to take the place of reserve regiments who are to participate in Russia's expected offensive.

GERMANS PLAN LAST DRIVE IN THE WEST

If It Fails Berlin Will Ask For Peace Proceedings.

London, Dec. 7.—The Lausanne correspondent of the Times says he has accurate information from Berlin that the Germans got a tremendous fright during the Anglo-French offensive the end of September, and that at Brussels all the belongings of the headquarters staff stood packed on motor cars ready for instant flight.

"As the Germans are still in a state of alarm," the correspondent continues, "they propose in January to make a desperate offensive attack of their own on the western front, and to this end the Krupps are working feverishly to prepare the necessary big guns and material."

"Supposing this attack fails, they have another card to play. The pope and President Wilson will be invited by Germany to start initiative proceedings for the proclamation of peace. This is the explanation of Prince von Buelow's visit to Switzerland and his negotiations there with the Vatican."

Successes for the French guns on the western front were recorded by the war office in Paris. In Belgium the Germans' underground passages were shelled and hostile troop movements halted. "There is nothing to add to the preceding communication," the war office announced.

WON'T WHIP HUSBAND

Small Wife Promises Not to Beat 250-Pound Spouse.

Sunbury, Pa., Dec. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. William Helm, of Herndon, were before Judge Moser in Northumberland county court, the husband being charged with desertion.

"I want you to make me promise to let me alone," the husband, who weighs 250 pounds, pleaded as he looked down on the woman, who isn't more than ninety pounds in weight.

Asked what she did, he replied that she was cruel to him. Pressing his questions, court forced the admission out of the woman that she occasionally spanked her husband. He made her promise no more whippings and sent them home.

POPE MAKES PEACE PLEA

Benedict XV. Also Speaks in Behalf of Armenians.

Rome, Dec. 7.—A strong plea for peace was made by Pope Benedict XV at the opening of the consistory at the Vatican.

His holiness deplored the horrors of war, and spoke with compassion of the plight of the Armenians in Turkey.

In his allocution the pontiff declared that when peace does come about, it must be of such a nature as will prevent another cataclysm of war in the future.

FLOOD OF BILLS IN NEW CONGRESS

House Re-elects Champ Clark Speaker.

REAL WORK STARTS TODAY

President Wilson Delivers His Annual Message to Joint Session—Democrats Control Both Branches.

Washington, Dec. 7.—More than 500 bills were introduced in the house at the opening session of the sixty-fourth congress.

Only a few of them dealt with national defense and the revenues, admittedly the two questions that will overshadow all other measures in this congress. A bill was introduced by Representative Dale, of New York, proposing to enlarge the New York navy yard for battleship construction. Mr. Dale also offered a bill providing for the creating of a board to determine the advisability of building an armor plant in the New York yard.

Representative Johnston, of Washington, presented a bill for the establishment of metric system. A bill was offered by Representative Cullop, of Indiana, prohibiting railroads from owning or leasing coal lands. A resolution was introduced by Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, repealing the free sugar provision of the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill. A bill to improve and to extend the block system on railroads was introduced by Representative Esch, of Wisconsin.

Bills proposing the creation of a tariff commission were presented by Representative Longworth, of Ohio, and Sabath, of Illinois. The creation of a bureau of labor safety in the department of labor is proposed in a bill offered by representative Mann, of Illinois. Representative Roberts, of Nevada, offered a bill imposing a two per cent. tax on the sales of mail order houses. A bill appropriating $300,000 for the construction of a government cartridge factory at Rock Island, Ill., was offered by Representative Tavenner, of that state. A bill creating a board to supervise the operation and management of steam vessels were offered by Representative Curtis, of California.

The original work of the session began, when President Wilson delivered his annual address to a joint session assembled in the hall of the house.

Speaker Clark was re-elected and sworn in amid cheers from the floor and galleries. In the senate the organization was perfected by the re-election of Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, as president pro tempore. Vice President Marshall was not in the chair for the opening.

The vote on the speakership was 221 to 194, with six members voting present. The roll call at the opening of the house had shown an attendance of 427, but only 421 votes were cast. Four Progressives and Representative Meyer London, of New York, the lone Socialist, voted present. The two other Progressives, Copley, of Illinois, and Stephens, of California, voted for Representative James R. Mann, Republican, of Illinois. After Speaker Clark had been sworn, the entire membership was sworn in by states.

As the house proceeded, a fight between Democrats and Republicans developed over liberalization of the rules. When Chairman Henry, Democrat, of the rules committee, offered the usual resolution to adopt rules of the last congress, Mr. Mann moved for a special committee on revision of rules. Mr. Henry objected and the first debate of the session began.

CONFIRM ATTACK ON U. S. SHIP

Greece Sends Destroyer to Aid Vessel Menaced by Submarines.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Official confirmation of an attack on an American steamship by a submarine in the Mediterranean, was received by the state department.

American Minister Droppers, at Athens, cabled that the Greek government had notified him that a wireless message had been caught from an American vessel, saying it was being attacked.

Mr. Droppers added that the Greek government has sent a destroyer to search for the vessel. Following is the message picked up at the wireless station: "Being fired upon by submarine. Position, 33.29 north, 24 east."

At the navy department it was stated that the cruiser Des Moines and the collier Caesar, the only two American war vessels in that section of the Mediterranean are safe.

Germans Repulse Russian Attacks

Berlin, Dec. 7.—The war office has issued the following statement on the campaign in Russia: "Russian attacks southwest of Babil lake and west of Riga broke down in front of our lines with heavy losses to the enemy. A German aeroplane was hit by Russian artillery and compelled to land near Markgrafen on the shore of Courland. The occupants were rescued."

Italian General is Killed

Rome, Dec. 7.—General Trombi has been killed in the fighting before Gorizia. It was officially announced.

PLOTTERS ACCUSED ON MURDER CHARGE

Serious Offences Found Against Fay and Others.

New York, Dec. 7.—Five additional indictments were returned against Robert Fay, Walter Scholz, Max Breitung, Dr. Herbert Klenze, Engelbert Bronkhorst and Paul Daeche, all charging conspiracy to commit murder, to commit assault with deadly weapons and to destroy ships.

The previous indictments against them merely charged them with attempting to destroy ships.

Fay, who says he is a lieutenant in the German army, and his associates originally were arrested on charges of conspiring to blow up ships carrying munitions to the allies. Fay said he had invented a device to be attached to the propellers of the ships, which would be exploded by the movement of the vessels.

The original charge referred to ships presumably owned by the allied nations. The new indictments specifically say the alleged conspiracy was directed against Americans and ships owned in part or whole in this country. The purpose of the new indictments is to cover possible technicalities not embraced in the original bill, particularly any events within the territorial waters of the United States.

Assistant United States District Attorney Knox explained that the indictments for conspiracy to commit murder did not necessarily mean that murder was planned, but that men who conspired to commit an act which might result in murder could be charged with the more serious crime.

800 PUPILS SCHOOLLESS

Mine Cave-in Wrecks Two Large Buildings.

Pittston, Pa., Dec. 7.—Two large school buildings in Pittston township have been wrecked badly by mine caves and 800 children are without public school accommodations.

The foundations of both buildings have been damaged, plaster has dropped from the walls and the structures are unsafe. The caves occurred in the mines of the Pennsylvania company.

School buildings are crowded almost to their capacity and school directors are puzzled to find room for the children out of school as a result of the caves. It will be some time before the wrecked buildings can put into shape for use.

49,874 Teutons Taken by Russians

Geneva, Dec. 7.—The Russian legation at Bern issued the following statement: "In the month of October the German official communications greatly exaggerated the number of Russians made prisoner. October was an especially successful month for the Russians, who captured 674 German officers, 49,200 Austro-German soldiers, twenty-one large cannon, 118 machine guns, and three search-lights."

FORD WILLING TO TO BRING ABOUT

Peace Expedition Will Be a Success, He Says, if War Is Shortened For One Day.

SPEND FORTUNE PEACE IN EUROPE

Action of Government Makes It Necessary For Activities to Be Confined to Neutral Nations.

WHATEVER may be the results of Henry Ford's peace expedition, these results must be obtained in neutral countries. The action of the state department in refusing to issue passports for the members of the party to enter belligerent countries was a keen disappointment to the expedition; but, undaunted, they are to hold conferences in Holland, Norway, Sweden and probably other noncombattant nations with the ultimate view of "getting the boys out of the trenches by Christmas."

touch it and destroy it. And yet what will happen to them if the war is stopped by the warring powers? Why should they oppose an effort to hasten the end?

"The effort to bring about peace is one in which a man must put himself, and that is why I am going myself. It is not enough merely to help others to go. The other peace societies have waited, apparently staggered and overwhelmed by the magnitude of the war. But wartime is the best time to talk peace. And I think the development of events will bring every sincere peace organization to give us their support."

Cardinal Gibbons' Comment.

"God bless you, and the church will be praying every day for the success of your mission of peace," said Cardinal Gibbons in parting from Ford after a conference over the peace expedition. "It would be the greatest Christmas present that could be brought to the world if the war could be stopped by then," the cardinal remarked.

Cardinal Gibbons expressed himself as in full sympathy with the movement and as hopeful that the mission would accomplish its end. Mr. Ford after the interview was more firmly convinced than ever that the time had come for active intervention.

Cablegram to Pope.

Mr. Ford also sent the following cablegram to the pope:

"Realizing the high and holy interest which you, as the supreme pontiff of the church, have taken in ending the present carnage, may I announce to you the peace mission on which we are approaching?"

"Believing this is a world situation in which international forces must cooperate, I have planned a conference of neutrals to adopt means and action for ending the most frightful war since history began."

"For fifteen months the people of the world have waited for governments to act, waited for the governments to lead Europe out of the unspeakable agony of suffering and prevent Europe's destruction. Meanwhile millions of men lie dead on the battlefields."

To Prevent Slaughter.

"Humanity owes it to millions more who are being led like cattle to slaughter to prevent the slaughter. If the Christianity of our boasted twentieth century civilization stands for the principles the great Prince of Peace enunciated this can be accomplished."

"There is no nation that has not declared it does not want this war. We believe there is no nation that does not at heart ardently long for peace. But as the warring nations cannot find it neutral nations must arrange a way.

"We are therefore planning a mediating conference. Men and women of America who believe in ideal international disarmament are sailing on the peace ship Oscar II, of the Scandinavian line.

"The delegation proceeds to Christiania, where Norway's valiant sons and daughters join the crusade. In Stockholm the ship's company will be re-enforced by agents of Sweden's people.

"The crusade will go to Copenhagen, proceeding to The Hague. We hope to meet delegations from Switzerland and Spain. From among the gathering will be selected delegates to sit in international conference in one neutral capital to formulate terms of peace and present them to the belligerent governments.

"For this understanding, most holy father, we seek your good will and co-operation."

HENRY FORD.

Problem of Passports.

Passports for members of the Ford expedition were issued only for those who intend to visit neutral countries. It was decided at the state department that passports would not be issued for members of the peace party to enter belligerent countries. As aliens cannot enter any of the belligerent nations of Europe without passports members of the Ford party will not be able to go to Germany, France, Italy, Russia, England or any of the fight

"I knew when I went into this thing that there would be some fighting. But I knew also that some of the interests that would offer resistance were the greatest towards on earth, and that is why I wasn't afraid to tackle them.

"Some capitalists are the greatest of these cowards. They are afraid of the brief and false prosperity coming in to some of them by the manufacture of munitions, afraid that somebody will ing nations. They could obtain passports for Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland.

Will Spend Every Dollar.

Mr. Ford announced that he would carry his plan through without regard to the attitude of Washington.

"I will give every dollar I possess and all I can raise on my credit," Mr. Ford said. "To stop the slaughter in this terrible war. I can easily make more money, but I cannot restore the lives of those who are killed."

"I realize that it is an enormous undertaking, but there is not such a great crowd to fight. I know that the men in the trenches do not want war. Not one-tenth of 1 per cent of the people in the world want war. Those who do want war are the men who are making money out of munition contracts."

So opposed to war and the armament of nations is Mr. Ford that he gave Oswald G. Villard of New York a check for $20,000 to establish a bureau in Washington to protest against President Wilson's "preparedness" program.

"We want to know just why 'preparedness' is necessary," Mr. Ford said. "I shall take an active part in the investigation immediately on my return from Europe. I will give Mr. Villard all the aid and assistance I can. If $20,000 is not enough he can have more."

"I want to get those boys out of the trenches before Christmas, and I believe that with the co-operation of the people I am interesting it can be done. It is a short time, but when the small number of people who actually want war is considered it is possible."

He said he received letters from prominent Socialists in Germany showing the men in the German, French and English armies were looting the war would end quickly.

Several European nations, neutrals as well as belligerents, have inquired of the United States concerning the status of the party. To each Secretary Lansing has replied that the American government not only has no connection with the expedition, but assumes no responsibility for any activities or negotiations on the part of those engaged in the movement.

The fact that Mr. Ford had conferred with President Wilson before launching his movement to end the European war gave some foreign ambassadors and ministers the impression that the Washington government might have some connection with it.

Grafter's Argument.

A grafter generally eases his mind with the thought that the people from whom he collected the money had no business with it in the first place.

Neatness, good clothes, and good manners are a man's show window.

No Fun for Him.
"I never see that monkey skylarking," remarked a man who understood monkey language. "I never see him swinging by the tail or having fun of any sort. 'Oh, that monkey has accumulated 3,000,000 cocoanuts,' explained an old chimpanzee. 'He has to spend all his time watching em. He can't have any fun.'"

Sound Advice.
"What are you doing, Thomas?" asked the father of the young man who sat dreamily gazing into space. "Building air castles, father," answered the visionary youth. "Quit it, my boy, quit it," said the old man. "You can't mortgage structures of that kind for a cent."

No Room for Them.
"Isn't there a notion that spirits walk the earth on Halloween?" "Yes," replied Mr. Growcher. "But they don't. None of them would dare take a chance on meeting the small boys who have taken charge of that particular date."

Achieving Civilization.
To achieve civilization a race must conquer itself and each individual must master the savage existing within him. The fact that we have not yet succeeded in doing this Doctor Mayer advances as the reason why cultured man has never civilized a primitive race. Under our domination, as is well known, the savage either dies or becomes a worthless parasite or a helpless slave.

Figuratively Speaking.
"What you need is elbow grease," said the lady, after watching the tramp's languid efforts to split a stick of wood. "A purely figurative term, jolly," he responded. "If I knew where elbow grease could be purchased I'd buy some. But you can't purchase a purely metaphorical commodity." "Oh, I don't know. You evidently know where to buy nose paint."

Optimistic Thought.
Every lot is to be overcome by endurance.

Budapest's Halls.
The Budapest Fine Art museum, according to the Kunstchronik, has a picture by Franz Hals, from the Paris collection of Moritz Kaufmann, representing a handsome young man. It was exhibited at the 1911 Paris exhibition of seventeenth-century Dutch masters, and was reproduced in W. R. Bode's "Life and Works of Franz Hals," published in 1914. The original drawing likewise appeared in the catalogue of drawings of old masters issued by the Stadel Institute of Frankfurt last year.

Razor Sharpener.
An electric safety razor sharpener has been developed which its inventor claims will re-edge blades as much as twelve times. The blades are clamped in a holder and inserted between two revolving cylinders. The holder moves backward and forward while the cylinders are revolving, and the blades are edged by even pressure applied to both sides.

While the Waiter Waits.
The Embarrassed One — "You've saved my life with the liver. I'll owe you an eternal debt of gratitude." The Generous One — "I don't care how long you owe me your gratitude, but as to the five simoleons—that's another matter." — Punch Bowl.

Rumor Corrected.
"I understand, Cuddihum, that your wife is convalescent?" said kindly Mrs. White. "No, ma'am. Ah'm glad to say she ain't. Stid o' dat, she's gittin' better ev'ry day." — Birmingham Age Herald.

His Handicap.
"As I was engaged in the very disagreeable and unglorious task of splitting up some hickory knots yesterday," related Jay B. Iden, the poet, "a wayfarer came along and offered to relieve me of the job in return for a pair of my old trousers. Unfortunately, I had them on at the time and the reading circle was convening in the house. On that account I was unable to avail myself of his kind offer." — Kansas City Star.

Lard and Kerosene

Just as a certain lard enables you to make flakier, better pie crust, so also a certain kerosene will burn brighter and give a greater heat than any you have previously used; that kerosene is Atlantic Rayolight Oil. It will neither smoke nor smell. Your grocer has it.

With a view to giving those who have not yet used this new excellent remedy an opportunity of trying it, in the treatment of Bronchial affections, including Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, Severe Coughs, Colds and Hoarseness, to prove its merits, these druggists are willing to allow the public the profit which they would otherwise make and the proprietor is willing to lose money on the same, so as to give them an opportunity of trying it, at partially their expense. Knowing it will be found the best medicine ever used by anyone.

Even though not in need of a Cough or Cold Medicine at the present time, it will pay to buy now, as some such medicine is sure to be required before the winter is over, but this remedy cannot be obtained at less than full price again. Besides making this reduction, these druggists guarantee this remedy just the same as Dr. Schiffmann's famous Asthmador, and will return the money in every single instance if it does not give perfect satisfaction and even more—if it is not found the best remedy ever used for any of the above complaints. This excellent remedy is sufficiently concentrated so that 50 cents' worth, when mixed at home, with simply one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water (according to printed directions) makes a whole family supply (128 teaspoonfuls) while bottles of the old, regular, ready-made kinds, of doubtful merit, and without a guarantee, usually average 20 to 32 teaspoonfuls.

It is prepared from strictly harmless plants, contains absolutely no chloroform, opium, morphine or any narcotic or injurious drugs which do most cough remedies, and can therefore be given to children with perfect safety. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. Besides absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy whatever, on the guarantee of the above, well-known, reliable druggists who will refund your 25c if it is not found the best remedy ever used.

If a neighbor or friend could be induced to divide and pay for half the quantity, the cost would thus only be about 12c to each.

TWENTY-FIVE CENT COUPON—NO. 2.

This coupon and 25c is good for one (only) 50c bottle of Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant at The People's Drug Store, if your name and address is filled in.

Medical Advertising IS YOUR STOMACH CLOGGED WITH WASTE?

The People's Drug Store Guarantees to Return the Money if Mi-o-na Does Not Relieve You

"It's a pleasure to sell a medicine when our customers come in afterward and tell us how much good it has done them," said C. Wm. Beales, the popular druggist to a Gettysburg man, "and that is why we like to sell and recommend Mi-o-na, the dyspepsia remedy. We have so much faith in this article that we are going to guarantee it in the future, and will return the money to any purchaser of Mi-o-na whom it does not help. That may seem rash but our customers have said so many good words in its favor that we do not expect to have many purchasers returned."

"Anyone who has dyspepsia, whose food does not digest well, and who has to take thought as to what he can eat, and when, can leave 50 cents deposit at our drug store and take home a box of Mi-o-na and if the remedy does not regulate his digestion and help his dyspepsia he can withdraw his money."

This shows great faith in the merit of Mi-o-na. It is really a most unusual medicine and the rapid increase of sales since The People's Drug Store introduced it in Gettysburg shows that it does all that it is claimed to do—relieves dyspepsia, regulates digestion and enables those who use it to eat just what they want with no fear of trouble after.

I will be in Gettysburg at Pen Myer's Jewelry store every TUESDAY to examine eyes and fit glasses

Distinction of Little Worth

The gray wolf's distinction is that his scalp is worth five dollars, while that of the coyote brings only one dollar. Most of the distinctions are as worthless to those who hold them as the bounty on his scalp is to the gray wolf.

The Element of Enjoyment.

"What satisfaction did you derive from paying a fortune for that quaint old picture?" asked the woman who is not very appreciative of art.
"The satisfaction," replied Mrs. Cumrox, "of showing our old friends that we could afford to spend all that money."

On Losing Your Temper

There is an old saying to the effect that the Jesuits are wise; they never lose their temper. This adage we submit for the consideration of those choleric people, male and female who cannot comprehend that a combination of sound and fury may as often contain elements of low comedy as of strength. He lost his temper is frequently another way of saying he lost his fight.—Baltimore Sun.

Absurd Medical Beliefs.

Even in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries there was a belief that lead bodies and medicinal virtues and nummies were obtained and ground to powder for making brews and oraths and terrible decoctions. It was said that the nummies for this industry were obtained in Egypt.

GREECE FACES NEW ULTIMATUM

Italy Waits to See What Rumania Will Do.

BUCHAREST IS SILENT

The Czar Sends a New Pledge of Assistance to Serbs—Allies Holding Their Own.

London, Dec. 7.—The allies have threatened to send an ultimatum to Greece if the Greek reply to the second note is not satisfactory, a Paris despatch reports on what is said to be high authority.

Lord Robert Cecil, under secretary for foreign affairs, announced in the commons that the relations between the allies and Greece were so delicate that he could make no statement on the matter now.

An official communication has been issued at Athens, to the effect that Greek press does not represent the views of the Hellenic government, which is said to be optimistic regarding a successful settlement, but the ground for this opposition which has failed to impress the newspapers and public either at Athens or London, is not given.

Renewed assurance of Russian aid for Serbia is given in a telegram from the czar to Premier Pachitch. The czar's message, as reported, is: "Russia has already a plan to save Serbia. In no case will Russia tolerate the disappearance of Serbia's independence."

Italy will delay sending troops into the Balkans until it is seen what Rumania is going to do, according to advices from Rome.

The attitude of Rumania remains undecided. Since the despatch announcing the closing of Rumanian ports to foreign trade was received silence has descended upon Bucharest, and Europe is awaiting anxiously the next move, which will give a meaning to this order.

The general belief here is that the Rumanian government is waiting for the concentration of a sufficient Russian force in Bessarabia and a large enough Anglo-French army in southern Serbia to make victory certain before joining the allies.

What may be an explanation of Rumania's action is given in a Bucharest despatch to the Paris Temps, as follows:

"Four Austrian monitors are prepared to leave Rusechuk in Bulgaria on the Danube, to bombard Ruse, a Danube port in Bessarabia, where a Russian army has assembled. Information to this effect was received here and in consequence the Rumanian government has decided to close all foreign navigation on the part of the Danube which flows through Rumanian territory."

The Serbian campaign proper having been brought to a conclusion, interest in the Balkan operations now centers upon the fate of the Franco-British forces in the southeastern corner of Serbia and the strip of Bulgarian soil held by the allies.

So rigid is the censorship in Salonika that the exact status of these operations is veiled in mystery. An official statement issued by the French war office, however, indicates that the allied troops are continuing to hold their own against the onrush of the Bulgarians sweeping to the south-east since the fall of Monastir.

The Athens correspondent of the Havas agency wires: "According to news from Salonika the Serbian troops retreating from Monastir arrived at Givell on Saturday, and will fight under the orders of General Sarraill, commander-in-chief of the French army of the Orient, in conjunction with the French troops."

Teutonic columns pursuing their operations against the Serbians across the Montenegrin border, have defeated Serbian detachments south of Sienica and northeast of Ipek in eastern Montenegro, German army headquarters announced.

The Bulgarians announce a further pursuit of Serbian forces through Albanian territory.

Brakeman Killed at Chester

Chester, Pa., Dec. 7.—Price Ashby, brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad, was accidentally killed when struck by a special train. He was flagging a shifting engine and did not see the special coming. He was twenty-five years old, and lived in North-east, Md.

Fined in Sunday Work

Bethlehem, Pa., Dec. 7.—Leonard Finelli, president of Roseto borough council, was fined $4 and $12 costs, for working on Sunday at his home. The offense consisted in the officer holding a pig pen about which several neighbors complained.

Thieves Get Jewels Worth $4000

Philadelphia, Dec. 7.—During the absence of the occupants thieves entered the home of A. Theodore Abbott, 520 West Horner street, Germantown, and took jewelry valued at $4000. The thieves were still in the house as Mr. Abbott and his wife neared, but left hurriedly when they heard the approaching motor car.

Watching a neighbor's house to see who comes out there of the wee sma' hours shows more curiosity than love. —Deseret Evening News.

PHILA. GIRL DEAD IN SUICIDE PACT

Bodies of Man and Wife Found in Room at Charleroi, Pa.

Philadelphia, Dec. 7.—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Stabler, the latter formerly of this city, were found in their home in Charleroi, Pa.

They had apparently been dead about two weeks. It is believed they took poison in a suicide pact.

Captain of Detectives Cameron was asked by the chief of police of Charleroi to notify the woman's mother, Mrs. Clopp, 5424 Reno street, of her daughter's death.

Mrs. Clopp had no knowledge of her daughter's death until the police conveyed the news to her. She said the young woman ran away from home more than two years ago and nothing had been heard from her directly by her family in that time.

The mother heard indirectly, some time after the daughter's disappearance, that she had met a man named Stabler in Baltimore and that they were married, although she never learned whether this was true or not.

The couple have been living in Charleroi for some time and were well thought of by their neighbors. They had not been seen for about two weeks and it was believed they were away from home until the odor from the house directed attention to it.

Neighbors communicated their fears to the police, the house was broken open and the bodies found. From their condition and other indications it was believed they had agreed to die and had taken poison.

WOUNDED MARINES HOME

Battleship Connecticut Brings Fighters From Hayti.

Philadelphia, Dec. 7.—Carrying a contingent of marines who have seen service in Hayti, including twenty wounded men who have not recovered yet from the injuries received in the fighting with rebel troops, the battleship Connecticut docked at the Philadelphia navy yard.

The wounded marines were taken at once to the Naval hospital.

One company of forty men with two machine guns, surrounded by 200 Haytiens, exterminated the insurgents who attacked them.

Another company of marines was attacked by more than 700 insurgents and scattered them in a few minutes with rifle and machine gun fire. Finally, in the battle for the conquest of Fort Riviere, late in November, the marines, by an early morning attack, surprised seventy insurgents and when the battle was over sixty-five killed were counted.

SINK SIX TURKISH SHIPS

Torpedo Boat Destroyer and 5 Other Vessels Sunk by British U-Boat.

London, Dec. 7.—The Turkish torpedo boat destroyer Yag Hissar has been sunk in the sea of Marmora by a British submarine. It was announced in a British official statement.

A supply steamship and four sailing vessels also were destroyed by the submarine on December 3 and 4.

The official statement is as follows: "A report has been received from one of the British submarines operating in the sea of Marmora, describing her recent activities."

"On December 2 she fired into and damaged a train on the Ismid railway."

"On December 3 she torpedoed and sank the Turkish destroyer Yag Hissar, outside the gulf of Ismid. She picked up two officers and forty men of the destroyer's crew and placed them on board a sailing vessel."

"On December 4 she sank a supply steamship of 3000 tons off Panderma by gunfire and also destroyed four sailing vessels carrying supplies."

SIMPLE, SAFE RULES FOR MAILING CHRISTMAS GIFTS

How Packages May Be Sent to Foreign Lands Without Trouble.

In a circular issued by the postoffice department the general public is given directions for wrapping and mailing Christmas presents and information as to the additions to the address which may be added in writing on the outside of the parcel.

Inscriptions requesting that the parcel be not opened till Christmas or bearing greetings may be placed on the package so long as they do not interfere with the address and leave ample room for that and for the stamps. The public is cautioned against placing other stamps or stickers than postage stamps on the address side and thereby rendering the parcel unmailable.

Care should also be taken not to seal parcels with stickers, as sealed packages are unavailable at the fourth class rate.

Among the troubles of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce in the department of commerce is the arrival at this time of innumerable inquiries from people who intend to send Christmas presents to relatives and friends abroad. All or most of them want to pay at this end of the route any tariff charges that may be imposed in the country of destination, and they pester the bureau with questions as to how the payments can be made.

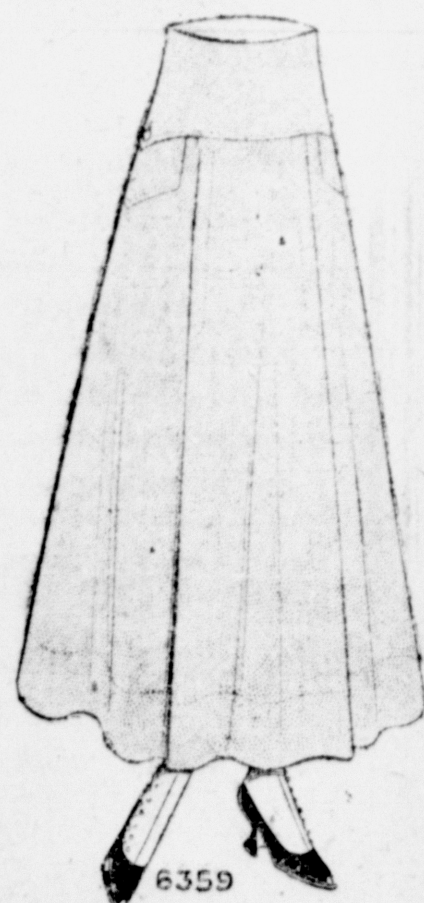

To these inquiries, some obviously feeling remarks are addressed in the latest issue of its publication, Commerce Reports. They are told first that the bureau cannot send to each questioner the full tariff schedules of all lands or even of any one, and that therefore they should make the problem they submit more definite than they do, telling exactly what it is they purpose to send away and where. This implies that then the information needed will be given. The answer really sent, however, to all these troubled ones is that "there is no direct way in which the import duty charged by another country can be paid here, but if the package is placed in the charge of an express company provision can be made for payment of duty by the express agent abroad."

A pleasing touch of human feeling—the touch so often lacking from governmental publications—is given in the conclusion of the article in Commerce Reports from which these facts are drawn. It says: "Although there is no exemption from custom house charges for Christmas gifts, there are some conditions under which certain gifts going from country to country may escape payment. Some governments rule that wedding presents brought in by subjects shall not be taxed. Some also exempt possessions that are part of an inheritance. But the season of universal giving is not on the tariff calendar as one when the pathway between the nations shall be cleared of obstructions."

YOU can serve roast goose instead of turkey for the Christmas dinner. This is the favorite piece de resistance on the German Christmas dinner table. The above is a typical menu.

Individual Service.
Sweetbreads in Custard.—Purloil two pairs of sweetbreads, remove membranes and separate into small pieces. Slice a tablespoonful of butter, add half a tablespoonful of flour, a pinch of salt and a dash of cayenne. Mix and add half a cupful of hot milk and half a cupful of cream slowly. Cook together until smooth. Serve in pretty shells or timbales.

Dressing to Suit Taste.

Roast Goose.—Slit and remove the pin feathers from the goose, wash the skin and then draw the bird. Wash inside with cold water and wipe dry. Stuff with dressing, place the wings and legs close to the body and tie them firmly. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and lay a few thin strips of salt pork over the breast. Place on the rack in the dripping pan, add a little hot water and put in a hot oven and bake, basting about every fifteen minutes with the fat in the pan. Take out the pork the last half hour of the cooking. When done place on a hot platter, cut the string and remove it and skewers. Garnish with cups made of halves of small red apples filled with apple sauce and watercress.

Served in Cups.

Apple and Cranberry Jelly.—Wash two quarts of tart apples and cut in small pieces without paring. Place in a kettle, add a quart of cranberries and almost cover with cold water. Bring slowly to the boiling point and simmer uncovered for an hour. Strain through a jelly bag. There should be about three pints of juice. Return to the kettle, place over the fire and boil twenty minutes, then add three pounds of sugar, which has been warmed. Cook for five minutes or till it will jelly. Pour into cups and let stiffen.

The Ordeal

The pie is on the pantry shelf, where it was laid last night.
It bears no doubt some certain teeth have nipped a future bite.
The cat sleeps on the sofa with a calm, untroubled brow.
She has no fear that any one will dock her whiskers now.

And in the kitchen there are heaps and heaps of bleeding wood.
It's getting on toward Christmas time and Tommy's being good.

At half past eight he shuts his book and yawns and shakes his head.
And says: "Good night to every one. It's time to go to bed."
And just about the time that dad is starting out for town.

You hear him trotting down the stairs to shake the furnace down.
And yesterday his teacher said: "Your boy has changed somewhat."
He's taking such an interest in the work he's doing now.

He folds his napkin every day. His clothes are clean and neat.
He never kicks the cans along when he goes down the street.

He still is running with his kang, but up to Friday night.

For almost fifteen days on end he hadn't had a fight.

Still, we'll be glad when Christmas comes, for it is all too plain.

That Tommy boy is staggering beneath a fearful strain.

—James J. Montague in New York American.

MINOR MEASURES TO BE CONSIDERED BY CONGRESS

Several Treaties to Be Ratified—Suffrage and Prohibition Hots on Hand.

While the preparedness measures and means of raising additional revenue will occupy a greater part of the time of congress, other measures less important will also be considered. The Colombian treaty, which carries $25,000,000 and an apology for the land taken by the United States for the Panama canal zone and for the action of President Roosevelt, may be disposed of by the senate. Senator Stone, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, is in favor of ratifying it, but it is feared now by friends of the treaty that there will be enough opposition to defeat it. Senator Borah, a Republican member of the foreign relations committee, has repeatedly said that he would use all his power to prevent ratification.

The Nicaragua treaty, which provides $3,000,000 for a canal right of way, will be stoutly opposed by Senator Smith of Michigan and others and may never be ratified.

A new treaty with Haiti providing for supervision of that country by the United States will be presented.

The attitude of this country toward Mexico will be discussed in the senate. But if President Carranza succeeds in crushing Villa and bringing about peace congress will not devote much time to that country.

The bill to provide a more liberal government for the Philippines may be passed at this session. The house passed the Jones bill last winter, but it did not get out of the senate committee.

The two spectacular issues before congress will be that of woman suffrage and prohibition. Large numbers of woman suffrage and prohibition advocates are coming here from the various states to make determined efforts to get votes for women and to make the capital dry. It is estimated that 200 or 400 women will frequent the corridors of the capitol for months to urge congressmen to support the proposed amendment to the constitution. The prohibitionists are quite as determined that their proposition to drive liquor out of Washington shall be accepted.

RESERVE OF DRUGS URGED.

United States in Case of War Would Face Shortage, It Is Declared.

The New York Medical Journal says that the discussion of plans for the organization of the army and navy should include consideration of the grave importance of an adequate reserve of medical and surgical supplies.

"If the United States became engaged in hostilities," it says editorially, "our ports would probably be blockaded. A study of the sources whence medical supplies are now obtained shows that from 75 to 90 per cent of these are either obtained from foreign sources or are dependent in some indirect way upon them. Even in supplies of domestic origin no reserves are on hand, and unless some special provision is made months would elapse after the outbreak of war before the demands of the army and navy could be met. We are now suffering from a marked shortage in surgical instruments, and if we required increased quantities of these we should simply be left without instruments."

NO ALUM—NO PHOSPHATE

The True Funeral Director.
The true funeral director is serious, but not gloomy; dignified, but not morose; gentle, but not fawning; self-poised, but not self-conscious; quietly masterful but not bossy; alert, but not fussy; watchful, but not nervous; pathetic, but not lachrymose; a kindly, unassuming master of ceremonies.—From a paper read at a convention in San Francisco.

A Generation.
Webster merely defines a generation generally, as "the average life of man, or the ordinary period of time at which one rank follows another, or father is succeeded by child." The Standard dictionary says: "Commonly estimated at one-third of a century." The Century dictionary states that "the historical average is commonly reckoned at about thirty years."

A TEST OF LOVE

By DWIGHT NORWOOD

Lord Archibald Gray was fond of bunting, riding—indeed, all out of door exercises. Being a nobleman and a fine fellow besides, he was a pet of the petticoats. A match had been made for him by his father, the Duke of Fordham, with Lady Geraldine Stanhope, the daughter of a duke. Lord Archibald was well satisfied with Lady Geraldine and seemed to be fond of her alone till Amy Cuthbert, the daughter of an American banker, came along, and from that time no one could tell whether Lord Archibald would marry Lady Geraldine or Amy.

The Cuthberts were very rich and rented a manor house in the neighborhood where Lord Archibald and Lady Geraldine lived. This made a steady thing of the rivalry between the two girls, not that a rivalry was apparent, for what each girl felt no one knew except herself.

For one who had not a noble ancestry Miss Cuthbert was remarkably well bred. Indeed, by some she was considered more of a high stepper than her rival. She had more money than Lady Geraldine, but this was her only advantage. The truth is it was an even thing between the two girls, and it was generally believed that Lord Archibald, provided he had his choice, would marry the one he loved.

Autumn came on and with it hunting. Everybody among the aristocracy round about hunted, and parties were made up for the purpose. One afternoon a number of persons set out, mounted, Lord Archibald and his two favorites being of the party. Lady Geraldine was high minded enough to show no unfriendliness to Miss Cuthbert, and on the surface at least they were good friends.

On this afternoon the party became scattered into little groups. In some cases individuals. Lord Archibald was riding in a wood when suddenly, emerging from it, he saw Lady Geraldine and Miss Cuthbert riding together on the bank of a stream. A horn sounded on the other side, and the two girls turned to cross the stream at a shallow place.

"My God," he exclaimed, "if they cross there they'll get into the quick sand!"

He cried out with all his voice, but it was drowned by the backing of a pack of dogs. Putting spurs to his horse, he dashed down a declivity toward those who were going into danger. Having descended from the bank, they passed over a stony bottom to the verge of the stream, and their horses' hoofs began to splash the water, neither riding ahead, but side by side. Then it was noticeable that the animals were having difficulty in withdrawing their feet from the muddy bottom.

Lord Archibald goaded his horse so fiercely that in jumping over an inequality in the ground he fell and sent his rider sprawling ahead of him. The man was not hurt, but arose with an exclamation of impatience and attempted to get his horse on his feet. He failed; the horse had broken a leg. Turning to look at the girls, Archibald saw their horses floundering in the water, both animals having sunk up to their bellies. Looking once more despairingly at his own horse and realizing the impossibility of using him, Archibald ran as fast as his legs would carry him toward the girls. When he reached them the bodies of both horses were nearly covered, leaving only the shoulders above the surface.

Archibald was alone. He had nothing with which to extricate the sinking girls, and if he entered upon the quicksand he would not save them, but add a third victim. He saw one chance—a tree growing on the bank inclined over the stream, and a branch extended straight out over the point where the girls were floundering. By climbing out on the branch it might be possible to help them, though it seemed too high to enable him to do so.

Gray jumped, caught a lower branch, pulled himself up into the tree, then began to crawl out on the limb. As he proceeded his weight bent it lower, and by the time he came to the point over which the girls were sinking, by winding his legs around the branch and holding on to it with one hand, he was within reach of both Lady Geraldine and Miss Cuthbert.

By this time several persons appeared on the opposite bank and stood looking anxiously on this harrowing scene. When Archibald was in position to render assistance, it was a question which girl he would first try to save.

Even if he reached one of them so deeply embedded was she that it would be difficult to draw her out. It was evident that only one, if any, could be saved. All watched to see which it would be. Both girls' faces were turned up to him eagerly, imploringly. Archibald hesitated, but only for a moment. Then he extended his hand to Lady Geraldine.

It fell short, but by rocking the branch, she extending her hand, he was enabled to grasp it.

He had scarcely done so when a rope was thrown from the shore and fell between Miss Cuthbert and her horse's head. A countryman had witnessed from his home the two girls riding to quicksand and, seizing a rope, had run toward them. Both girls were drawn out by means of the rope.

There was no doubt as to which of the two favorites Lord Archibald loved. He married Lady Geraldine. Miss Cuthbert went back home and married one of her own countrymen.
